The PubMed Central reference number is a unique number assigned to a work that is posted to PubMed Central (PMC), a free digital archive of biomedical and life sciences journal literature at the U.S. National Institutes of Health (NIH) developed and managed by NIH's National Center for Biotechnology Information (NCBI) in the National Library of Medicine (NLM). PubMed Identifier, consists of strings of numbers, are created by the PubMed database which is run by the US National Library of Medicine and the National Institutes of Health. Guidelines and Recommendation specific field. Person who validated the Document.

Guidelines and Recommendation specific field. Date the document was validated. An International Standard Book Number. ISBNs were 10 digits in length up to the end of December 2006, but since 1 January 2007 they now always consist of 13 digits.

An International Standard Serial Number. ISSN is an 8-digit code used to identify newspapers, journals, magazines and periodicals of all kinds and on all media-print and electronic.

A unique and persistent string of characters used to identify a journal article, website, or other item of intellectual property, typically one in digital form. An entity responsible for making the resource available.

The file format, physical medium, or dimensions of the resource.

A file format or physical medium.

A unique identifier as defined by JSON-LD Node Identifiers. This should be the URL of the data.json file itself
Information about rights held in and over the resource.

A related resource in which the described resource is physically or logically included.

A container for the array of Dataset objects. This field allows for separate cataloging elements/sub descriptors for multiple data sets in one record. Still used when the record is just one dataset.
Explain with this: <https://project-open-data.cio.gov/v1.1/metadata-resources/#field-mappings>

Represent each bureau responsible for the dataset according to the codes found in OMB Circular A-11, Appendix C. Start with the agency code, then a colon, then the bureau code.

This should include included with hasEmail as part of a record's contactPoint (see above example).

Date on which the resource was changed.

Provide an array of programs related to this data asset, from the Federal Program Inventory.

Temporal characteristics of the resource

The URL or JSON object for the JSON-LD Context that defines the schema used.

The URL for version 1.1 of the schema is <https://project-open-data.cio.gov/v1.1/schema/catalog.jsonld>

The metadata type. For JSON, this should be dcat:Dataset for each Dataset or dcat:Catalog for the catalog. for schema.org it's itemType attribute.

This is used to specify a data dictionary or schema that defines fields or column headings in the dataset. If this is a machine readable file, it's recommended to be specified with describedBy at the distribution level along with the associated describedByType. At the dataset level it's assumed to be a human readable HTML webpage or PDF document. Documentation that is not specifically a data dictionary belongs in "references"

<https://project-open-data.cio.gov/v1.1/metadata-resources/#field-mappings>

This is used to identify the media type (IANA Media Type also known as MIME Type) of the URL used for the dataset's describedBy field. This should be specified if describedBy is not an HTML webpage.

Indicates whether a dataset conforms to the agency's information quality guidelines.

Frequency of publishing. See:

https://project-open-data.cio.gov/iso8601_guidance/#accrualperiodicity

This is used to identify a standardized specification the dataset conforms to. If this is a technical specification associated with a particular serialization of a distribution, this should be specified with conformsTo at the distribution level. It's recommended that this be a URI that serves as a unique identifier for the standard. The URI may or may not also be a URL that provides documentation of the specification.

This should be formatted per vCard specifications (see example below) and included with fn as part of a record's contactPoint

A legal document giving official permission to do something with the resource.

Use to link a given dataset with its related IT Unique Investment Identifier, which can often be found in Exhibit 53 documents.

This field should be a URL to the System of Records Notice (SORN) that relates to the dataset, specifically from FederalRegister.gov.

This field is not intended for an agency's homepage (e.g. www.agency.gov), but rather if a dataset has a human-friendly hub or landing page that users can be directed to for all resources tied to the dataset.

URL providing direct access to a downloadable file of a dataset
